The Coliseum filled rapidly just beforenon, some delay in opening the doors to spectators preventing an earlier influx. The bands accompanied the delegations to the hall but were not allowed to march into the hall. Few delegations came in altogether and there was little excitement or cheering during the half hour preceding the opening of the convention.

Nation's Chief Executive Delivers Address on "Amer-lea First."

WASHINGTON, June 14.—Led by President Wilson, carrying the Stars and Stripes, nearly 75,000 men, women and children of Washington marched up broad Pennsylvania avenue today in a preparedness parade, arranged to emphasize the national capital's de-mand for an adequate army and navy, Besides marching himself and then reviewing the parade the president had prepared an address on "America First" to be delivered in the afternoon at an open air meeting south of the White House.

Washington was brilliantly deco-rated for the occasion. It was a holiday for under an executive order issued by the president all government employes were excused from work and many stores were closed. The celebration was planned in part as a re-sponse to a proclamation issued by the president calling upon the people of the nation to celebrate Flag day this year with special ceremonies. The parade was planned as a strict-

The parade was planned as a stru-ly non-partisan affair and was sug-gested by a Republican newspaper of Washington. Volunteering to partici-pate in it were employes of many stores and shops, members of patric-tic, philanthropic, religious and social organizations, many of the city's leading business men, cabinet officers judges, school children and members of the Senate and House.
